Subject: disposal of HE by burning at LANL

John, I ask that your team please reconsider your proposed ban on burning high-explosive residues associated with LANL counter-terrorism work. To the best of my knowledge, the real risk that this poses is insignificant, while getting in the way of anti-terrorism work is clearly not in the state's or the nation's best interests. The real risks associated with transporting HE . . . well, now you're talking real dangers!

Your comments or, better, your concurrence would be most appreciated.

Thank you-
